

Report of the Appeals Committee 2010-2011

The Appeals Committee met eight times during the academic year. The following activities were conducted at these meetings:

- The committee read and discussed at length each newly received appeal.
- For each newly received appeal, the committee decided whether or not a review panel should be appointed. If appropriate, the committee chair appointed a panel and designated one panel as chair of the panel. (Two co-chairs were designated for one panel.)
- The committee reviewed each report prepared by a review panel, and decided whether or not to accept the report.
- The committee or its chair met on an as-needed basis with the chief academic officer.

The Appeals Committee began the year with one active case. During the 2010-2011 academic year the Faculty Appeals Committee received one new appeal and closed one case. As of August 31, 2011, there was one active case. This information is summarized in the following table:

Open Appeals from 2010-2011	1
